London, June 20.
Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

Naples, June 3.

ON the 29th of the last Month Cardinal Pignatelli, our Archbishop, arrived here from Rome. The Prince of San Severo, Grandee of Spain, and Knight of the Golden Fleece, received Advice lately from Vienna, that the Princess de Sangro, his Daughter, was admitted into the Station of Lady of Honour to the Empress now reigning. Last Week 200 Men were put on board the St. Leopold Man of War, in order to be transported to Fiume, to be sent from thence to Hungary for the Service of the Italian Regiments; and the Search after all Vagabonds and idle Strollers is still continued in order for their serving as military Recruits.

Modena, June 5. The Princess of Modena is arrived here from Venice, accompanied by the Abbé Philibert, whom the Regent of France had sent to that Princess. Her Highness is come to use all possible Means for restoring good Agreement in her Family: And there is no doubt but her generous Proceeding will, at last, effectually bring over the Duke of Modena to the just Instances of her Highness and her Spouse, who continues at Venice, waiting the good Success of those Instances. M. de Chavigny, Envoy of France, arrived here a few Days ago, to continue his Mediation on the same Affair.

Genoa, June 7. It is reported that the Senate has sent an Answer to the British Court, relating to the Demand upon Sig. Giustiniani, for a great Sum of Money he is owing to the English. It is likewise said, that the Dutch Squadron, appointed to act against the Algerines, is put into Port Mahon, to take in fresh Water. In the Great Council assembled here on the 30th of the last Month, the Senate added to the Nobility of this State, the Nephews of the present Pope, upon which Occasion the Te Deum has been sung, and great Rejoycings have been made throughout the City. The last Advice from Provence say, that the Plague discovers itself in several Villages newly infected, and that the City of Lyons has forbidden all Commerce with Languedoc, upon Pretence of the Contagion having spread it self to that Province.

Stockholm, June 11. On the 9th Instant an Express arrived here from Neustad, with Advice that M. Osterman was arrived there, and that the Conferences were begun. That Express has brought important Dispatches; and 'tis generally reported that the Peace is near being concluded, although 'tis asserted on the other Hand that the Czar insists upon keeping all Livonia: Those Advices add, that M. Osterman has declared that the late Descent on the Coast of Gaffle was executed without the Czar's Knowledge. M. Finch, the British Envoy, being returned Yesterday from the Fleet, 'tis therefore imagined it has not yet sailed from Elfenaby; and that the last Dispatches from Neustad will, very probably, alter the Instructions already given to the British and Swedish Admirals. The King is almost perfectly recovered from his late Indisposition. Letters of the 8th Instant from Suderham say, the Muscovites have committed terrible Ravages in their late Descent; that their first Design was upon Gaffle, but finding some Swedish Forces posted advantageously at that Place, they went further Northwards, and frighted most of the Inhabitants into the Woods, leaving their Houses and Effects to the Enemy, who have taken some Prisoners, and among them some Children: It is reckoned they have ruined the Country about 10 Leagues in extent, and burned 50 or 60 Villages. Count Freytag has had Audience of the King, and renewed his Instance, on the part of the Emperour, to engage him to make a Peace with the Czar; to which his Swedish Majesty answered, that he was entirely disposed to Peace, provided the Czar made any reasonable Proposals concerning Revel.

Cottzenbourg, June 12. The two Russian Ships that sailed lately from Copenhagen-Road, have landed their Crews near Winghe, in the Island Bornæ, within two Leagues of this Place, where they have pillaged and burned two Villages, and carried off two Gallies. It is said they expect to be shortly joined by three Men of War lately bought for the Czar's Service.

Venice, June 14. M. Stampa, the Pope's Nuncio, is preparing to make his publick Entry in this City against the Beginning of the next Month. Letters of the 12th of the last Month from Constantinople say, that Matters were very quiet in that Capital; but that the Plague had begun to shew itself by the Death of some of the Inhabitants, and the Disorders continue in Grand Cairo. Those Letters add, that by Orders from the Grand Signior the Fortifications of the Frontier Places were vigorously carried on; that Troops were also marching thither, but only for Precaution-sake, and not with a Design of breaking with any Christian Potentate.

Ratisbon, June 19. The Saxon Minister residing at Vienna has wrote to the Evangelical Body, that on the 13th Instant he presented the Protestants new Remonstrances to the Emperour, who gave them a favourable Reception, promising to have a Regard to them, and to cause speedy Justice to be executed on their Behalf.

Vienna, June 14. The Protestant Deputies of Hungary have had an Audience of the Emperour, who, 'tis said, has given them good Hopes concerning the redressing their Grievances.

Leipsick, June 18. Advices from Vienna say, that the Catholick State of Hungary, assembled at Pest, have published a Kind of a Protestation against every thing which the Emperour may grant to the Protestants of that Kingdom, relating to a Toleration and Exercise of their Religion.

Ostend, June 22. Yesterday the Lord Forbes arrived here from London, on his Way to Vienna. The Marquess de Priola expected either in a few Days. Nothing is yet determined concerning the establishing an India Company, the Sentiments of Persons here being very much divided on that Affair. The Cargo of the Ship Prince Eugene, which arrived lately from China, will be put to Sale on the 5th of July next.

Brussels, June 23. In the 11th Instant M. Vegelin took the Oaths of Fidelity to the Emperour, for the Command of the Citadel of Tournay. The same Day the Councils of Windisgratz returned from Aix la Chappelle to Ter-Vuren, upon which Occasion the Marquess de Priola sent her his Compliments. The Baron d'Audignies not having appeared to make good what he had mentioned in his Letters to the Disadvantage of Lieutenant Colonel du Soissy, the Council of War pronounced those Letters to be calumnious and defamatory, and caused them to be burned on the 20th Instant by the Hands of the Hangman in the Square des Sablons.

Hague, June 25. Advices from Aix la Chappelle say, that the Prince of Hesse-Philippdal, Brother to the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel, died there on the 17th Instant; and Yesterday the Princess his Spouse arrived here from that Place, from whence 'tis believed the Corpse of the deceased will be conveyed to Cassel, to be buried in the same Vault with his Ancestors.

Paris, June 25. On the 19th Instant, the Day of the Procession of St. Sulpice, which was to pass by the House of the Turkish Ambassador; the Curate sent to desire he would order his Domesticks to keep within Doors, lest they behaved irreverently before the Host at the Time of its Procession. The Ambassador returned Answer, That the Curate did his Duty by sending that Message; that he himself was a Believer, and that he would give such Orders to his Domesticks, as should prevent their doing any thing to be complained of: Accordingly, when the Procession came by, the Ambassador Labour and his Son were at the Windows, as were also their Attendants, behaving themselves with as much Respect as could be required. On the 20th Instant the Ambassadour went to view the Treasure and Armilla at St Denis. On the 22d, being the Eve of St. John the Baptist, the Officers of the City went in Ceremony to wait upon the Ambassadour, desiring his Presence the next Day at the Town-House, to see the Fireworks that are usually discharged every Year on that Day: He went thither at six a Clock in the Evening and was handsomely regaled; after which, he beheld the Ceremony of giving Benediction to the Fire, as also the playing off of the Fireworks. The Masquerade, and Ball that were prepared for his Entertainment on the 22d at Night, lasted till six a Clock the next Morning; Abundance of Masques were assembled on that Occasion, and among them the famous Robber Cartouche, and several of his Gang. Mademoiselle the Abbess of Jouars died on the 21st; she was Sister to the Cardinal and Prince of Rohan; That Abbacy is worth 20000 Livres a Year, and the King has now given it to Mademoiselle de Soubise, Niece to the defunct Abbess, and Daughter to the Prince of Rohan, who has been to wait on the Duke of Orleans, to return Thanks for that Benefice. Mademoiselle de St. Contest, Widow of M. St. Contest, late Master of Requests, and Mother to M. de St. Contest, the Councillour of State who was lately at Cambray, died on the 20th Instant.

John Marshall, Maker of Optick Glasses to his Majesty, Arche Archimides in Ludgate-street, London, having by long Experience observed that abundance of Peoples Sight is spoiled by using false Spectacles sold by Toy-men and other ignorant Persons, to prevent which, he doth set the Age on the Frame, for every one to know the Sight they wear, for it oten happens, that a Person of 30 takes Spectacles of 60 or 70, to the spoiling of their Sight, whereas if the Age had been known by the Buyer, he would not have used them. By the use of true Spectacles the Sight is much preserved, so that many Persons of 60 or 70
 Years of Age, can on occasion read without them. Also Reading-Glasses and Spectacles of Rock Crystal, as well as Glasse, Microscopes, Telescopes, and all other Optick Glasses, made to the exact Perfection by him who is the only Person approved of by the Royal Society for the Art of Glasse Grinding. John Marshall
